

Director

Jean-Marie Guéhenno serves as Director of the Center for International Conflict Resolution. He also serves as Associate Director of the Arnold A. Saltzman Institute for War and Peace Studies at SIPA, directs the school's International Conflict Resolution concentration, and is a Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution. He was recently appointed by UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon to chair the newly created Senior Advisory Group for the Review of International Civilian Capacities.

Guéhenno previously served as United Nations Under-Secretary-General for Peacekeeping Operations from 2000-2008. In that role, he led the largest expansion of peacekeeping in the history of the UN, overseeing approximately 130,000 staff on eighteen missions. Before joining the United Nations, Guéhenno served as director of policy planning in the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, ambassador to the Western European Union, and chairman of the French Institute of Higher Defense Studies.

Guéhenno has published articles in many newspapers and magazines, including “The Impact of Globalisation on Strategy” in the International Institute for Strategic Studies’ Survival, and “Globalisation and the International System” in the Journal of Democracy, as well as articles or chapters in Internationale Politik, Prospect, Paradoxes of European Foreign Policy, and Strategic Analysis. He is the author of The End of the Nation-State (1993).

Guéhenno has also taught extensively, including as a professor at the Institut d’Etudes Politiques of Paris and at the Ecole Nationale d’Administration. Guéhenno serves as a non-resident senior fellow at the Brookings Institution; as Chairperson of the Advisory Board of the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR); and as Chairman of the board of the Centre for Humanitarian Dialogue in Geneva.

Guéhenno is a graduate of the Ecole Normale Supérieure, the Institut d’Eudes Politiques, and the Ecole Nationale d’Administration (ENA).