INSURGENCY AND COUNTERINSURGENCY IN SOUTH ASIA

Through a Peacebuilding Lens

Moeed Yusuf, editor

"These excellent case studies shift the counterinsurgency focus to the origins and gestation of insurgencies and show how they grew into major regional conflicts. The findings in this volume challenge the peacebuilding, development, democracy-building, and human rights communities to devote their energies to the pre-crisis stage of 'unstable peace' in the many existing quasi-democratic weak states, when their tools can be more effective in helping to avoid the carnage and spreading threats from potential insurgencies."

-Michael S. Lund, Management Systems International

Insurgency and Counterinsurgency in South Asia underscores the need for South Asian decision makers and relevant actors around the world to systematically examine the nature of intrastate insurgent movements. Using the "conflict curve" theory of conflict evolution, ten experts native to South Asia consider the trajectories of four of the most salient armed insurgencies in a region that has experienced many such sustained conflicts and the counterinsurgent response to each. Case studies on India, Pakistan, Nepal, and Sri Lanka lend important lessons on the dynamics of each conflict while collectively offering insights into how and why insurgencies occur and transform as well as how they can be prevented or resolved.

Through a peacebuilding lens, the contributors ask, What incentives led resentful groups to resort to armed insurgency? And, once insurgency was under way, how was it managed?

While many studies of insurgency and counterinsurgency emphasize military tactics and terrorism responses, this volume hones in on policy-relevant conclusions pertinent to the peacebuilding field. Detailed maps created especially for this volume illustrate conflict regions. Emphasizing nonviolent means to prevent or mitigate conflict, Yusuf and the contributors highlight the opportunities and constraints in applying peacebuilding approaches across the conflict curve, identifying recommendations for the disputing parties as well as for peacebuilders.

MOEED YUSUF is director of South Asia programs at USIP. He has taught at Boston University and Quaid-e-Azam University, Pakistan, and has previously been affiliated with the Brookings Institution and the Harvard Kennedy School. Yusuf is editor, with Scott Smith and Colin Cookman, of Getting It Right in Afghanistan, also available from USIP Press.

NATO'S BALANCING ACT

David S. Yost

"After the acclaimed NATO Transformed, David Yost's NATO's Balancing Act demonstrates once again why the author ranks among the leading experts in his field: those who want to understand NATO's internal and external challenges will not find a more thorough analysis."

-Michael Rühle, Emerging Security Challenges Division, NATO

NATO has come under increasing fire for its structural constraints, shortcomings in burden sharing among its members, and disagreements about threat assessments and priorities. Despite these serious challenges, longtime NATO watcher David Yost argues that the Alliance is no Cold War dinosaur.

NATO's Balancing Act evaluates the alliance's performance of its three core tasks collective defense, crisis management, and cooperative security—and reviews its members' efforts to achieve the right balance among them. NATO has retained its original collective defense and positive political change missions, but it has also undertaken crisis management operations and addressed nontraditional threats, such as energy and cyber security, terrorism, and the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

This volume examines the evolving security environment and its implications for collective defense before turning to the Alliance's crisis management efforts in the Balkans, Afghanistan, Africa, and Libya. Yost also considers the possibility of NATO's further enlargement, the complexities of its partnerships with other international organizations, and its shifting relationships with Russia, Ukraine, Georgia, Mediterranean and Persian Gulf states, and the Asia-Pacific region.

Whether NATO can maintain cohesion and perform its tasks effectively is a question of fundamental importance for U.S. and international security. NATO's Balancing Act calls for a constructive path forward, including balanced engagement with Russia, missions beyond Europe as necessary, and enhanced partnerships with international organizations and nations.

DAVID S. YOST is a professor at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California, and was previously in the Office of Net Assessment at the Department of Defense. A senior fellow at the United States Institute of Peace (1996–97), he has also held fellow-ships with NATO, the Council on Foreign Relations, Fulbright, the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, and the NATO Defense College, among others.

PEACE ECONOMICS

A Macroeconomic Primer for Violence-Afflicted States

Jurgen Brauer and J. Paul Dunne

"This short primer offers rules of thumb and policy-relevant lessons for those involved in post-conflict reconstruction and statebuilding. Each chapter ends with a list of lessons. The book recognizes that care must be taken when thinking about transferring lessons between contexts. It is also refreshingly honest in noting that economic theories should be taken with a pinch of salt in the wake of the financial crisis ongoing since 2007. As befits a primer, the book is accessible and well illustrated and uses a good blend of examples and theory."

Peacemaker's Toolkit Series

The United States Institute of Peace, in collaboration with other organizations and experts, has developed a series of "best practices" handbooks on mediation and peacemaking. Designed for experienced mediation practitioners and negotiators, these toolkits are also valuable resources for students and policymakers.

MANAGING FIGHTING FORCES

DDR in Peace Processes

Kelvin Ong

Providing guidance on the mediation and negotiation aspects of disarmament, demobilization, and reintegration (DDR) programs, this toolkit lays out eight detailed steps that mediators can take to establish appropriate linkages between DDR and other aspects of a peace process.

MANAGING PUBLIC INFORMATION IN A MEDIATION PROCESS

Ingrid A. Lehmann

This volume helps mediators identify and develop the resources and strategies they need to reach a wide variety of audiences, from governments and rebel forces to local and international media, NGOs and IGOs, and divided communities and diasporas.

60 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½ $10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-041-2

MANAGING A MEDIATION PROCESS

David R. Smock and Amy L. Smith

This handbook provides a methodology for mediating interstate and intrastate conflicts. By consolidating the practical wisdom of managing a mediation process into an easily digestible format, this volume is designed to help mediators identify areas where they may need more research or preparation, as well as develop options and strategies relevant to the particular case on which they are working.

68 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½ $10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-037-5

INTEGRATING INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT IN PEACE PROCESSES AND AGREEMENTS

TALKING TO GROUPS THAT USE TERROR

Nigel Quinney and A. Heather Coyne

This handbook poses and attempts to answer a series of basic, but complex, questions: Is there any advantage to the peace process in inviting or permitting the participation of proscribed armed groups (PAGs)? What kinds of PAGs are worth talking to and which are not? What form should the talks take and whom should they involve?

About the Cross-Cultural Negotiation Series

The United States Institute of Peace has developed a series of conceptual and country-specific assessments on the theme of cross-cultural negotiating behavior. The basic assumptions that underlie the studies in this series are that negotiating is the usual, if not always the preferred, technique of international problem solving, and that greater understanding of the dynamics of negotiating, greater appreciation of the cultural and institutional influences of a counterpart's behavior, and greater self-awareness will help make negotiating encounters more productive.

VOTING IN FEAR

Electoral Violence in Sub-Saharan Africa

Dorina A. Bekoe, editor

"This exceptional collection of essays examines why roughly a fifth of the elections in sub-Saharan Africa since 1990 have led to violence. Using a new data set of recorded violent episodes, as well as careful case studies of Cote d'Ivoire, Ethiopia, Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria, and Zimbabwe... the essays suggest that African electoral violence results not from an excess of democracy but from the fact that many elections in the region are hardly democratic at all." -Foreign Affairs

FAITH AND POLITICS IN NIGERIA

Nigeria as a Pivotal State in the Muslim World

John N. Paden

"Noting that Nigeria is the most populated country in the world with a rough balance between Muslims and Christians, Paden argues that how Nigeria manages religious differences in a peaceful way offers important lessons for the world." -CHOICE

IDENTITY, DIVERSITY, AND CONSTITUTIONALISM IN AFRICA

Francis M. Deng

"An eloquent reminder that African countries are facing a constitutional deficit rather than simply a democratic one. While the West applauds or bemoans the outcome of specific elections, Africa faces the immense challenge of developing a new constitutionalism to accommodate diversity and manage it in the context of the cultural values of its own people."

NEGOTIATING ARAB-ISRAELI PEACE

American Leadership in the Middle East

Daniel C. Kurtzer and Scott B. Lasensky

"[A] trenchant guide."

-Newsweek

"A well-reasoned, realistic study setting out what works and what does not in this distinctive diplomatic arena. Today's leadership (and tomorrow's) could usefully build on the lessons presented here."

THE NEW TURKISH REPUBLIC

Turkey as a Pivotal State in the Muslim World

Graham E. Fuller

"Fuller offers a generally positive appraisal of Turkey's foreign policy performance, and he suggests that the United States can and should accommodate itself to this new reality."

—Foreign Affairs

"The most noteworthy attempt so far to analyze Turkey's changing foreign policy in the 21st century." —Sahin Alpay, Today's Zaman

IRAQ, ITS NEIGHBORS, AND THE UNITED STATES

Competition, Crisis, and the Reordering of Power

Henri J. Barkey, Scott B. Lasensky, Phebe Marr, editors

"Ten seasoned experts take their turns describing the changes wrought by the 2003 U.S. invasion of Iraq and the changes still under way. . . . Individual chapters are devoted to the Iraq-related diplomacy of the Gulf States, Iran, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and Turkey. Concluding essays address Irag in the context of Arab political reform and consider the U.S. role in Iraq."

INTERNATIONAL MEDIATION IN VENEZUELA

Jennifer L. McCoy and Francisco Diez

Foreword by Jimmy Carter

"Between 2002 and 2004, a period of dangerous political polarization in Venezuela, McCoy and Diez were members of a team from the Carter Center that negotiated between President Hugo Chávez and the Venezuelan opposition. The international mediation successfully channeled political energies away from potential violence and toward peaceful constitutional voting. . The book is smartly analytic, full of valuable lessons learned, and often self-critical; it is also a spirited defense of the Carter Center's role in the standoff."

WOMEN AND WAR

Power and Protection in the 21st Century

Kathleen Kuehnast, Chantal de Jonge Oudraat, and Helga Hernes, editors

"An important and much needed addition to the literature on women's experiences both during and following conflict that constructs an analytical research agenda to promote the protection and participation agenda of 1325. Women and War successfully identifies the gaps within the current body of research in the ten years since the adoption of resolution 1325: it is now time to fulfill the promise of 1325 and fill in the gaps that make protection and power incomplete."

TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE IN BALANCE

Comparing Processes, Weighing Efficacy

Tricia D. Olsen, Leigh A. Payne, and Andrew Reiter

"[A] groundbreaking effort to provide transparency and clarity about the methodology and implications of research on transitional justice mechanisms.... The volume is one of the first of its kind to compare multiple mechanisms and combinations of mechanisms across countries and time. It does so in a well-written and accessible way.... There is no doubt that Olsen, Payne, and Reiter substantially contribute to attenuating the frequent complaint that the study of the underpinnings and outcomes of transitional justice remain underdeveloped."
