The United States Institute of Peace is an independent, nonpartisan, national institution established and funded by Congress. Its goals are to help prevent and resolve violent international conflicts, promote postconflict stability and democratic transformation, and increase peacebuilding capacity, tools, and intellectual capital worldwide. The Institute does this by empowering others with knowledge, skills, and resources, as well as by its direct involvement in peacebuilding efforts around the globe.

The United States Institute of Peace is committed to publishing significant works that offer new insights and information to practitioners, scholars, diplomats, and students, among others.

A CRUCIAL LINK
Local Peace Committees and National Peacebuilding

Andries Odendaal

“Exploring the connection between peacebuilding at the government and local levels, A Crucial Link: Local Peace Committees and National Peacebuilding underscores the importance of understanding that peace processes are multilayered, complex, and cut across all levels of society. A valuable addition to course reading lists, this volume rightly emphasizes the need for grassroots ownership of peacebuilding processes and provides examples of successes, where governments, NGOs, and local entities have collaborated for greater overall effectiveness.”

—Landon Hancock, Center for Applied Conflict Management, Kent State University

In places as diverse as South Africa, Northern Ireland, and Nepal, negotiators of national peace plans have for years sanctioned the creation of local peace committees (LPCs) to address community-level sources of grievance and thereby to build peace from the bottom up. Peace practitioners working with LPCs around the globe have operated in the hope that such a robust peace infrastructure that facilitates collaboration between all sectors and levels of society, including government, would finally bring lasting peace to societies entrenched in conflict.

Yet LPCs themselves and their contribution to larger peacebuilding efforts have to date been poorly understood and little analyzed. In A Crucial Link: Local Peace Committees and National Peacebuilding, longtime practitioner Andries Odendaal engages in the first comparative study of LPCs and asks where and if the committees have actually succeeded. Odendaal weaves together practical experience, peacebuilding theory, recent cases, and practical guidelines for setting up and supporting the work of these local committees.

Odendaal finds that LPCs can be critical in establishing social cohesion, facilitating dialogue, and preventing violence. Through their unique ability to engage the particular local aspects of conflict not shared throughout a country in conflict, LPCs can foster the success of national agreements, especially when they are formally supported and embedded in a larger peace infrastructure.

In-depth case studies provide keen insights into the successes and potential challenges to implementing LPCs. Explaining the dynamics of LPCs and their relationship to national efforts, Odendaal makes a compelling case for increased use of LPCs across conflicts. Building on two decades of theory on the necessity of society-level approaches to peacebuilding, this volume is a must read for anyone working to promote peace in divided societies.

ANDRIES ODENDAAL is a senior associate at the Centre for Mediation in Africa at the University of Pretoria and an independent conflict transformation specialist. Among his previous positions, he was a Jennings Randolph Senior Fellow at the U.S. Institute of Peace from 2009–10 and a senior trainer and program coordinator at the Centre for Conflict Resolution, University of Cape Town. He was a regional coordinator of the Western Cape Peace Committee in South Africa (1993–94) and has also served on the expert roster of the Bureau for Crisis Prevention and Recovery of the UN Development Programme.

HOW WE MISSED THE STORY

Osama bin Laden, the Taliban, and the Hijacking of Afghanistan

Second Edition

Roy Gutman

“In the second edition of How We Missed the Story, Roy Gutman updates the already compelling case he made for the necessity for U.S. leaders to understand the culture and history of Afghanistan before the invasion of 2001. Those in the highest reaches of America’s foreign policy establishment will find it an essential guide to avoiding the blunders of the past. Academics will embrace it as essential reading for our next generation of leaders. And the public will at last have an explanation of why we were not able to win our nation’s longest war.”

—Bill Belding, professorial lecturer, School of International Service, American University

In How We Missed the Story, Second Edition, Pulitzer prize–winning journalist Roy Gutman extends his investigation into why two successive U.S. administrations failed to head off the assaults of 9/11 and to look at the U.S. military intervention that followed. With American forces due to withdraw in 2014 from a country far from stable, he suggests that the longest ever U.S. military intervention was doomed by the same flawed outlook that prevailed in the 1990s. During that twenty-five-year span, U.S. policymakers showed little interest in the country’s history and culture and assumed Afghanistan could serve principally as a platform for attacking U.S. foes. Gutman contends that the key to preventing a reversion to radical jihadism lies in acknowledging the enormous sacrifices Afghans made in the 1980s war and committing to the country’s long-term stability. Anyone who thinks Afghanistan doesn’t matter, or that Washington can walk away once again, is “missing the story.”

Expanded by nearly a third, this new edition focuses on American missteps from 1989 through 2012. Gutman draws upon his own research and interviews, beginning with the Soviet withdrawal that gave way to the American withdrawal of the 1990s and the ensuing security vacuum Islamic militants used to American detriment. While many political figures and outside observers blame the U.S. lack of preparedness for the 9/11 attacks on intelligence and law enforcement agencies, Gutman argues that the strategic failure prior to 9/11 lay in U.S. foreign policy. Addressing 9/11 solely with a counterterrorism approach, Washington “missed the story” and failed to put things right. By going to war in Iraq, it effectively abandoned Afghanistan again. This study also illuminates American engagement in the broader world after the Cold War and asks: Whatever happened to foreign policy?

Anyone who wants to avoid repeating the mistakes of the past, whether a general reader, scholar, or government official, needs to know How We Missed the Story.

ROY GUTMAN is a Pulitzer prize–winning journalist and the Middle East correspondent for McClatchy Newspapers. He was a Jennings Randolph Senior Fellow at USIP (2003–09).
GETTING IT RIGHT IN AFGHANISTAN

Scott Smith, Moeed Yusuf, and Colin Cookman, editors

As the United States and NATO prepare to withdraw their troops from Afghanistan in 2014, the question remains as to what sort of political settlement the Afghanistan government and the Taliban can reach in order to achieve sustainable peace. If all parties are willing to strike a deal, how might the negotiations be structured, and what might the shape of that deal be? Getting It Right in Afghanistan addresses the real drivers of the insurgency and how Afghanistan’s neighbors can contribute to peace in the region.

A recurring theme throughout the volume is the complex, multiactor conflict environment in Afghanistan and the resulting need for more inclusive political arrangements. The first set of chapters focus on internal political dynamics and Afghan political actors’ views on a peace process. The second section covers Afghanistan’s neighbors and their role in shaping the country’s internal politics. Efforts to date to implement a peace and reconciliation process for Afghanistan are covered in the final section. Taken together, the book conveys the complexity and challenge of building an enduring and stable political consensus in Afghanistan’s fragmented environment.

Since beginning work in Afghanistan in 2002, the U.S. Institute of Peace (USIP) has been informing policy through accurate, clear analyses of the conflict that could shape a negotiated settlement. Comprising a collection of its analysis from 2002 to the present, Getting It Right in Afghanistan offers valuable insights to the policymakers charged with developing a new course of action for contributing to peace in Afghanistan and regional stability.

SCOTT SMITH is the deputy director for USIP’s Afghanistan program. Formerly at the United Nations, he is the author of Afghanistan’s Troubled Transition: Politics, Peacekeeping and the 2004 Presidential Election. MOEED YUSUF is the South Asia adviser for USIP’s Center for Conflict Analysis and Prevention and manages the Institute’s Pakistan program. Yusuf is also cofounder of Strategic and Economic Policy Research, a consultancy firm in Pakistan. A former research analyst at the Center for American Progress, COLIN COOKMAN is a research contractor for USIP. He also served as a member of Democracy International’s election observation team during the 2010 parliamentary elections in Afghanistan.

DETECT, DISMANTLE, AND DISARM
IAEA Verification, 1992–2005
Christine Wing and Fiona Simpson

“The important work of the IAEA in verifying dismantlement and disarmament has attracted surprisingly little attention—until now. In this comprehensive study, Wing and Simpson fill that lacuna by collecting and analyzing a wealth of data about all the relevant cases. Developing machinery capable of effectively verifying the rollback of nuclear weapon programs, especially in a noncooperative setting, is a critical element of creating a rules-based nuclear order able to meet today’s nuclear threat. This useful and interesting volume advances that vital goal.”
—James Acton, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

Simpson currently works in the Weapons of Mass Destruction Branch of the United Nations Office for Disarmament Affairs.

PEACEBUILDING IN COMMUNITY COLLEGES
A Teaching Resource
David J. Smith, editor

“This volume conveys not only practical guidance and models for those interested in creating a place for peace studies in the community college curriculum. It also shows how courses and programs focused on peacebuilding connect students, institutions, and communities to what is happening in the rest of the world in meaningful ways. It shines a wider light on using peace studies as a way to effectively bring global studies to students through substantive issues.”

Peacemaker’s Toolkit Series

The United States Institute of Peace, in collaboration with other organizations and experts, has developed a series of “best practices” handbooks on mediation and peacemaking. Designed for experienced mediation practitioners and negotiators, these toolkits are also valuable resources for students and policymakers.

MANAGING FIGHTING FORCES

DDR in Peace Processes
Kelvin Ong

Providing guidance on the mediation and negotiation aspects of disarmament, demobilization, and reintegration (DDR) programs, this toolkit lays out eight detailed steps that mediators can take to establish appropriate linkages between DDR and other aspects of a peace process.

$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-133-4

CONDUCTING TRACK II PEACEMAKING

Heidi Burgess and Guy Burgess

Presents the process of track II intervention as a series of steps that guide peacemakers in coordinating various track II efforts to maximize their positive impacts.

84 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½
$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-069-6

TIMING MEDIATION INITIATIVES

I. William Zartman and Alvaro de Soto

Lays out steps mediators can take to assess whether a stalemate exists, interpret the parties’ perception of where they stand in the conflict, and encourage a ripe moment for mediation.

51 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½
$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-058-0

MANAGING PUBLIC INFORMATION IN A MEDIATION PROCESS

Ingrid A. Lehmann

This volume helps mediators identify and develop the resources and strategies they need to reach a wide variety of audiences, from governments and rebel forces to local and international media, NGOs and IGOs, and divided communities and diasporas.

60 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½
$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-041-2

MANAGING A MEDIATION PROCESS

David R. Smock and Amy L. Smith

This handbook provides a methodology for mediating interstate and intrastate conflicts. By consolidating the practical wisdom of managing a mediation process into an easily digestible format, this volume is designed to help mediators identify areas where they may need more research or preparation, as well as develop options and strategies relevant to the particular case on which they are working.

68 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½
$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-037-5

WORKING WITH GROUPS OF FRIENDS

Teresa Whitfield

Explores how peacemakers can productively work with informal mini coalitions of states or inter-governmental organizations that provide support for resolving conflicts and implementing peace agreements—an innovation often referred to as groups of “Friends.”

78 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½
$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-059-7

DEBRIEFING MEDIATORS TO LEARN FROM THEIR EXPERIENCES

Simon J. A. Mason and Matthias Siegfried

Examines interviews conducted with mediators and shows how lessons from individual mediators can be identified and made available both to their organizations and to a wider practitioner audience.

54 pp. • 5 ½ x 8 ½
$10.00 (paper) • 978-1-60127-052-8

TALKING TO GROUPS THAT USE TERROR

Nigel Quinney and A. Heather Coyne

This handbook poses and attempts to answer a series of basic, but complex, questions: Is there any advantage to the peace process in inviting or permitting the participation of proscribed armed groups (PAGs)? What kinds of PAGs are worth talking to and which are not? What form should the talks take and whom should they involve?

CONFLICT ANALYSIS

Understanding Causes, Unlocking Solutions
Matthew Levinger

“More than yet another conflict assessment framework, this comprehensive primer describes a wide array of analytical tools and processes that development, diplomacy, and humanitarian professionals can use to grasp complex conflict situations and avoid cognitive traps in order to engage effectively. Drawing from research in multiple disciplines, the author reviews global trends in conflict and major theories. Overall, a compelling case for understanding conflicts before responding.”

PEACE ECONOMICS

A Macroeconomic Primer for Violence-Afflicted States
Jurgen Brauer and J. Paul Dunne

“This short primer offers rules of thumb and policy-relevant lessons for those involved in post-conflict reconstruction and statebuilding. Each chapter ends with a list of lessons. The book recognizes that care must be taken when thinking about transferring lessons between contexts. It is also refreshingly honest in noting that economic theories should be taken with a pinch of salt in the wake of the financial crisis ongoing since 2007. As befits a primer, the book is accessible and well illustrated and uses a good blend of examples and theory.”

REWRING REGIONAL SECURITY IN A FRAGMENTED WORLD
Chester A. Crocker, Fen Osler Hampson, and Pamela Aall, editors

“It captures the variety of security challenges and the diversity of conflict management practice across the regions. Featuring regional voices, this timely and innovative volume will help students and practitioners grasp the global conversations taking place on conflict and security issues. The editors are surely correct to conclude that we live in an age where security is divisible but collective action is more necessary than ever.”

LEASHING THE DOGS OF WAR
Conflict Management in a Divided World
Chester A. Crocker, Fen Osler Hampson, and Pamela Aall, editors

“Continues the high standard established by its two predecessor volumes. It provides a comprehensive, balanced overview of the mainstream consensus and debates on the causes of conflict and the efficacy of contemporary practices of conflict management.”

—Peace & Change

“An outstanding introduction to the various challenges to global security and diplomacy in the post–September 11 world order, its breadth also makes it a handy practitioners guide. . . . It provides precious and much-craved-for insight into how international actors, such as international organizations, nongovernmental organizations, peacemakers, and reconstructing states play a crucial part in the creation and change of international security and humanitarian law.”

Cross-Cultural Negotiation Series

The basic assumptions that underlie the conceptual and country-specific studies in this series are that negotiating is the usual, if not always the preferred, technique of international problem solving, and that greater understanding of the dynamics of negotiating, greater appreciation of the cultural and institutional influences of a counterpart’s behavior, and greater self-awareness will help make specific negotiating encounters more productive.

NEGOTIATING ACROSS CULTURES
International Communication in an Interdependent World Revised Edition
Raymond Cohen
“Cohen demonstrates the dissonance that cultural differences can create in each stage of international negotiations. . . . He provides examples of miscommunication and misunderstanding between the United States (a low-context culture) and Mexico, Egypt, India, and Japan, all of which he labels high-context cultures.”

NEGOTIATING WITH IRAN
Wrestling the Ghosts of History
John W. Limbert
Foreword by Mark Bowden
“Limbert appraises the negotiating style of Iran and of those it confronts . . . Limbert was one of those held hostage in Tehran from 1979 to 1981. Yet as this splendid study of U.S.-Iranian relations demonstrates, he emerged from that bitter experience with an ability to bring to his appraisal a rare combination of insight, dispassion, and empathy.”

INTERFAITH DIALOGUE AND PEACEBUILDING
David R. Smock, editor

“While discussions of interreligious dialogue most often arise from religious professionals and involve complex reflections on religious ethics and epistemology, Interfaith Dialogue and Peacebuilding addresses the practical purpose and strategic function of interreligious engagement. . . these essays together form a persuasive case that religious perspectives can mitigate or even reconcile the conflict they are often assumed to produce.” —Journal of Church and State

THE IRAN PRIMER
Power, Politics, and U.S. Policy
Robin Wright, editor
“Presents fifty articles on topics including governing institutions, the opposition, the military, the nuclear controversy, international sanctions, and the economy. It covers the torturous diplomacy of every U.S. presidency from Jimmy Carter to Barack Obama . . . as well as Iran’s relations with its neighbors and with China, Russia, and the EU. . . . This is a beautifully wrought handbook.”

WOMEN AND WAR
Power and Protection in the 21st Century
Kathleen Kuehnast, Chantal de Jonge Oudraat, and Helga Hernes, editors
“An important and much needed addition to the literature on women’s experiences both during and following conflict that constructs an analytical research agenda to promote the protection and participation agenda of 1325. Women and War successfully identifies the gaps within the current body of research in the ten years since the adoption of resolution 1325: it is now time to fulfill the promise of 1325 and fill in the gaps that make protection and power incomplete.”

YOUTH AND POST-CONFLICT RECONSTRUCTION
Agents of Change
Stephanie Schwartz
Foreword by Betty Bigombe
This volume uses three cases of postconflict reconstruction—Mozambique, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, and Kosovo—to explore how youth affect the postconflict reconstruction process, and how domestic policy, NGO programming, international interventions, and cultural contexts may change that role.
2010 • 240 pp. • 6 x 9
$17.50 (paper) • 978-1-60127-049-8
“This comprehensive volume introduces state-of-the-art data that helps focus debate and research on electoral violence in conflict. Featuring excellent case studies by prominent scholars, Voting in Fear is an accessible, well-researched book that offers thoughtful and realistic policy recommendations.”

—Terrence Lyons, George Mason University

IRAQ, ITS NEIGHBORS, AND THE UNITED STATES
Competition, Crisis, and the Reordering of Power
Henri J. Barkey, Scott B. Lasensky, Phoebe Marr, editors

“Ten seasoned experts take their turns describing the changes wrought by the 2003 U.S. invasion of Iraq and the changes still under way. . . . Individual chapters are devoted to the Iraq-related diplomacy of the Gulf States, Iran, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and Turkey. Concluding essays address Iraq in the context of Arab political reform and consider the U.S. role in Iraq.”

INTERNATIONAL MEDIATION IN VENEZUELA
Jennifer L. McCoy and Francisco Diez

Foreword by Jimmy Carter

“The book is smartly analytic, full of valuable lessons learned.”

—Foreign Affairs

Analyzes the effort of the Carter Center and the broader international community to prevent violent conflict, to reconcile a deeply divided society, and to preserve democratic processes. As facilitators of the intervention, the authors present an insider account of mediation at the national and international level.

WHERE IS THE LONE RANGER?
America’s Search for a Stability Force
Second Edition
Robert M. Perito

“A timely assessment of America’s ability to develop and field an essential component of stability operations—constabulary forces. Perito demonstrates their importance by drawing on American experience, particularly in Iraq and Afghanistan, and explains why America has been slow to arrive at this solution.”

—David Bayley, School of Criminal Justice, SUNY-Albany

“Our men and women in uniform can face greater danger from drug traffickers, violent mobs, and lawlessness than from enemy tanks, planes, and ships. Robert Perito has given us a blueprint for building capable and sustainable institutions to provide the rule of law. . . . This is a mission we WILL perform again.”

—William B. Caldwell IV, Lieutenant General, United States Army

TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE IN BALANCE
Comparing Processes, Weighing Efficacy
Tricia D. Olsen, Leigh A. Payne, and Andrew Reiter
“[A] groundbreaking effort to provide transparency and clarity about the methodology and implications of research on transitional justice mechanisms . . . . The volume is one of the first of its kind to compare multiple mechanisms and combinations of mechanisms across countries and time. It does so in a well-written and accessible way. . . . There is no doubt that Olsen, Payne, and Reiter substantially contribute to attenuating the frequent complaint that the study of the underpinnings and outcomes of transitional justice remain underdeveloped.”
